ABOUT US

Dear students,

The focus of the Writing Center is to support you in writing your Bachelor's or Master's theses. We offer workshops and advice – in German as well as English – to rouse interest in writing and improve your ability to write solid and professional academic texts.

In our Academic Writing Workshops you will receive useful tips and do practical exercises, so that what you learn can be put into practice right away.

Besides the workshops, we also offer needs-based Individual Consultations for writing projects you are working on. Just send us an email (schreibzentrum@fh-wien.ac.at) to book a session.

All services offered by the Writing Center are free of charge for all students of FH Wien der WKW.

We are looking forward to seeing you at our workshops or for an individual writing consultation.

YOUR WRITING CENTER TEAM

— ACADEMIC WRITING WORKSHOPS —

The workshops are offered in English language and are for students who are writing their Bachelor's or Master's theses in English.

Research Question

Tuesday, 19 March 2019 | 16:30–19:00

Instructor: Mag.^a Eva Kuntschner

»A good research question is a key to a good paper and a smooth process. Our first aim is: Everybody should have one! Our second aim is: Everybody should have a good one that will help make the task more manageable.« (Lotte Rienecker, Head of University of Copenhagen Writing Center, 1999)

In this workshop we will look at the research question as a key factor of a good paper and at the following questions: What kind of research questions are there? What is their relationship to the choice of methods in an empirical study? How can my research question help me regarding structure and planning?

Structure and Red Thread

Wednesday, 10 April 2019 | 16:30–19:00

Instructor: Mag.^a Eva Kuntschner

The »Red Thread« is a much-evoked feature for the quality of academic texts. But what exactly is the Red Thread? And how can we get it into a text?

This workshop deals with both the macro- and micro-structure of academic texts and with ways in which to get your readers to follow your Red Thread until the very end. Possible intended side-effects: sudden insights and improved writing skills.
